The School of Criminology and Criminal Justice at Florida Atlantic University (FAU) invites applications and nominations for the position of School Director to begin spring or fall 2019 on the Boca Raton campus. The Director, together with the Dean of the College for Design and Social Inquiry, is responsible for cultivating and enhancing scholarly excellence, setting intellectual standards, and establishing academic priorities. The School is comprised of thirteen tenure-track/tenured faculty, three full-time instructors, adjunct instructors, and administrative assistants. The next Director will be visionary about the School's future and opportunities and able to build on the active research and scholarship agendas of faculty, undergraduate and graduate education programs, and current engagement with the community and discipline.

About the School

FAU is a Carnegie doctorate-granting university (RU/high research activity) with over 30,000 students and is a designated Hispanic Serving Institution. FAU's strategic plan focuses on healthy aging, neuroscience, environmental science, and sensing and smart systems, supported by scholarly activities that address diversity, leadership, big data analytics, global perspectives and participation, community engagement, undergraduate research, healthy and sustainable campus environments, and peace, justice, and human rights. The School is the second largest undergraduate degree program by enrollment at FAU and offers the Bachelor of Arts in Criminal Justice and a Master of Science in Criminology and Criminal Justice. The School is home to the paralegal and legal nurse consulting certificate programs which are migrating online. School initiatives include a speakers series, strong community engagement, Scotland study abroad, high school summer camps, internships, a fully online undergraduate degree, and research partnerships with the public, private, and not-for-profit sectors. Our School values racial and cultural diversity and inclusion. For additional information on our program and faculty, please visit our School's web page at <http://www.fau.edu/sccj/>.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Criminology, Criminal Justice, or related field is required. Candidates will have extensive academic experience with an exemplary record of scholarship, research, teaching, and service. Rank of Professor is preferred. The primary responsibilities of the Director include providing administrative and intellectual leadership, oversight of the School's academic programs and budgets, and support for faculty, staff, and undergraduate and graduate students. The ideal candidate will demonstrate the ability to strategically lead in a climate of collaboration, transparency, and shared governance. Well-qualified applicants will have leadership experience, a record of success in external funding and/or managing sponsored research programs, and be able to effectively communicate within the School, College, University, and broader community. Experience mentoring junior and mid-career faculty is preferred.
